We just dodged nuclear war. Twice.

People understandably have strong views on these issues. They are matters of freedom, life, and death. Here is a selection from one momentous day of interviews with seasoned, patriotic, experienced military and intelligence analysts that may give you insights you don’t get from most news outlets. I suggest you at least listen to the first and work you way through the rest as you have time. There are many vital insights here.

President Trump says the Iranian position on nuclear talks is unacceptable. Warns of devastating consequences.

Geopolitical Analyst Professor Marandi on the Iranian view of President Trump's Demands for a Deal (59:01)

<https://www.youtube.com/live/wR6Wcq2DCIY>

Above are two views of an approaching U.S. attack on Iran if a deal is not quickly reached. Apparently the majority of the media believe neither of these views is credible. I think both of the above perspectives are correct about the disastrous effects on the U.S. and the entire world that such a conflict would bring.

Although I have been in agreement with many of the social, cultural, and moral issues the Trump administration has supported, I believe he appears to be backing the same foreign policy he seemed to want to stop. This foreign policy can literally destroy our country, nullifying the value of any conservative social gains and MAHA health improvements.

American foreign policy has been unjust and immoral for many years now, as clearly revealed in the Jeffrey Sachs EU Parliament speech above. America will not be great again unless it is good. I have studied the biblical interpretations some Christians hold for considering the modern state of Israel as uniquely supported by God. I have found both the biblical and historical support lacking. I believe Christians deceived into supporting Israeli policies are key supporters of injustices that will likely bring judgment on our country.
